Lo, I come through webb'd moon cycles,
I, the High School Senior Blotter,
Fashioned by the learned Seniors,
Fashioned in their leisure hours.
Now, I come, in Indian raiment,
Breathing forth the thoughts and ideas
Of the class of '29;
For within me all the Seniors
Deep have placed their whims and fancies;
Now, I fling forth all my being
To the eyes of many readers,
I, the High School Senior Blotter,
Come to you in all my glory.

—John E. Lepping.

C.2

As we leave our Alma Mater
Come the Mem-ries of days spent here
Days of work and days of pleasure
Each one precious, each one priceless.
When in maze of these, our Mem'ries
Through it, binding all together,
Is the kindly helpful spirit
Of the one to whom we offer
This our Blotter—Book of Mem'ries.

SILVER FLINT

Many, many years ago there lived a tribe of Cherokee Indians on the Ohio River, where Silver Creek now empties into the larger stream. The tribe was a very prosperous one, due to the wise government of their old chief, Waseeta.

Waseeta had a beautiful young daughter, named Silver Flint, whose hand was desired in marriage by all the young warriors of the tribe. Rather unreasonably, so the tribe thought, she had refused all the braves, and her father was in despair about the state of things. However, Silver Flint herself knew the reason: she was in love with Cheela, the black sheep of the tribe. In vain were her efforts to reform him, and marry him she would not, until he proved himself a true brave.

Waseeta, loath to force his daughter into marriage in the normal tribal manner, decided to use strategy. The fact that he had no son made this grizzled old chieftain show more leniency than is the wont of Indians for their woman kind.

Waseeta took counsel with his main medicine man, and, after long hours of meditation and divining by casting corn meal upon the water of a little inlet, it was decided to give Silver Flint over as a Vestal to the Moon. She was kept closely in a tepee during the day and appeared only at night for ceremonial dances. She could walk only in the moonlight after the warriors had gone to sleep.

Of course, Waseeta had his fingers crossed in giving the edict and hoped that Silver Flint would through boredom soon give in to his wishes.

Outwardly Waseeta was stoically calm, but he was very impatient and so welcomed an unexpected occurrence. An enemy tribe had appeared and settled near Waseeta's village. There was much consternation among the people, and it was decided to let the aliens make the first move. They did, but in a totally different way than had been expected. A young enemy brave, scouting at night, saw Silver Flint and fell in love with her. A few nights later, while the camp slept, he crept into her wigwam and carried her away. Great was the anger of the Cherokees when they learned of this, and a searching party was formed with the once lazy sluggard, Chela, in command. For days they followed through the forest, and finally they noticed a small stream in the trail they were following. It became broader and deeper until finally it wiped out completely the tracks of Silver Flint and her captor. The Cherokees returned to their camp brokenhearted, with only the stream of Silver Flint's tears by which to remember their beautiful princess.

The next day, Waseeta, now a broken old man, called together his braves for council. It was decided that in order to protect themselves in the future, a rampart of some sort should be made. Soon afterward, the gigantic work was started. Thousands and thousands of rocks were carried to build a great wall around the village. Cheela realized that through his fault was the lovely girl lost. He drove the warriors mercilessly but drove himself as hard. For years they labored, and, finally, the thing was completed. Now the village was safe; giant hills bordered it on three sides with the great expanse of the river in front of it. The stream of Silver Flint's tears wound itself down among the foothills and finally found its way into the Ohio. Then, in honor of the memory of their princess, they named the hills and the stream after her. Thus, the hills were called Silver Hills, and the stream of tears became Silver Creek.

Why Seniors Edit an Annual

Editing an annual is a form of play (?) made attractive by the fact that one gets his name in print occasionally, gets called out of his classes at odd intervals, and contracts a feeling of self importance which is mostly pleasing to one's vanity.

Editing an annual is what writing economic's outlines, taking tests, and proving geometric propositions would be if these diversions were performed with Mr. Class Spirit holding the whip-hand instead of Mr. Teacher; if one had an admiring audience of underclassmen continually ohing and ahing at the mysteries of that Black Magic called Mounting.

Editing an annual, at first sight, seems to be delicious fun and quite a new way of amusing one's self, but after the first three months, mounting becomes rather monotonous. Also, try as you may, you just cannot look sincere when you attempt to smile at jokes that you've written, typed, and proof-read no less than ten times.

Editing an annual is W. H. A. S. (what happens after school). It is executed on large tables which are invariably overflowing with scraps of paper in various stages of importance and messiness. These may range from a piece of scrap paper to the senior list, and from a bit of paper dabbed with India ink, to one steeped in rubber cement.

The implements employed in this sport (yeah sport) are: Un, a can of rubber cement commonly known as goo; Deux, a brush commonly known as goo-stick; and Trois, a degree of nervousness commonly known as ague.

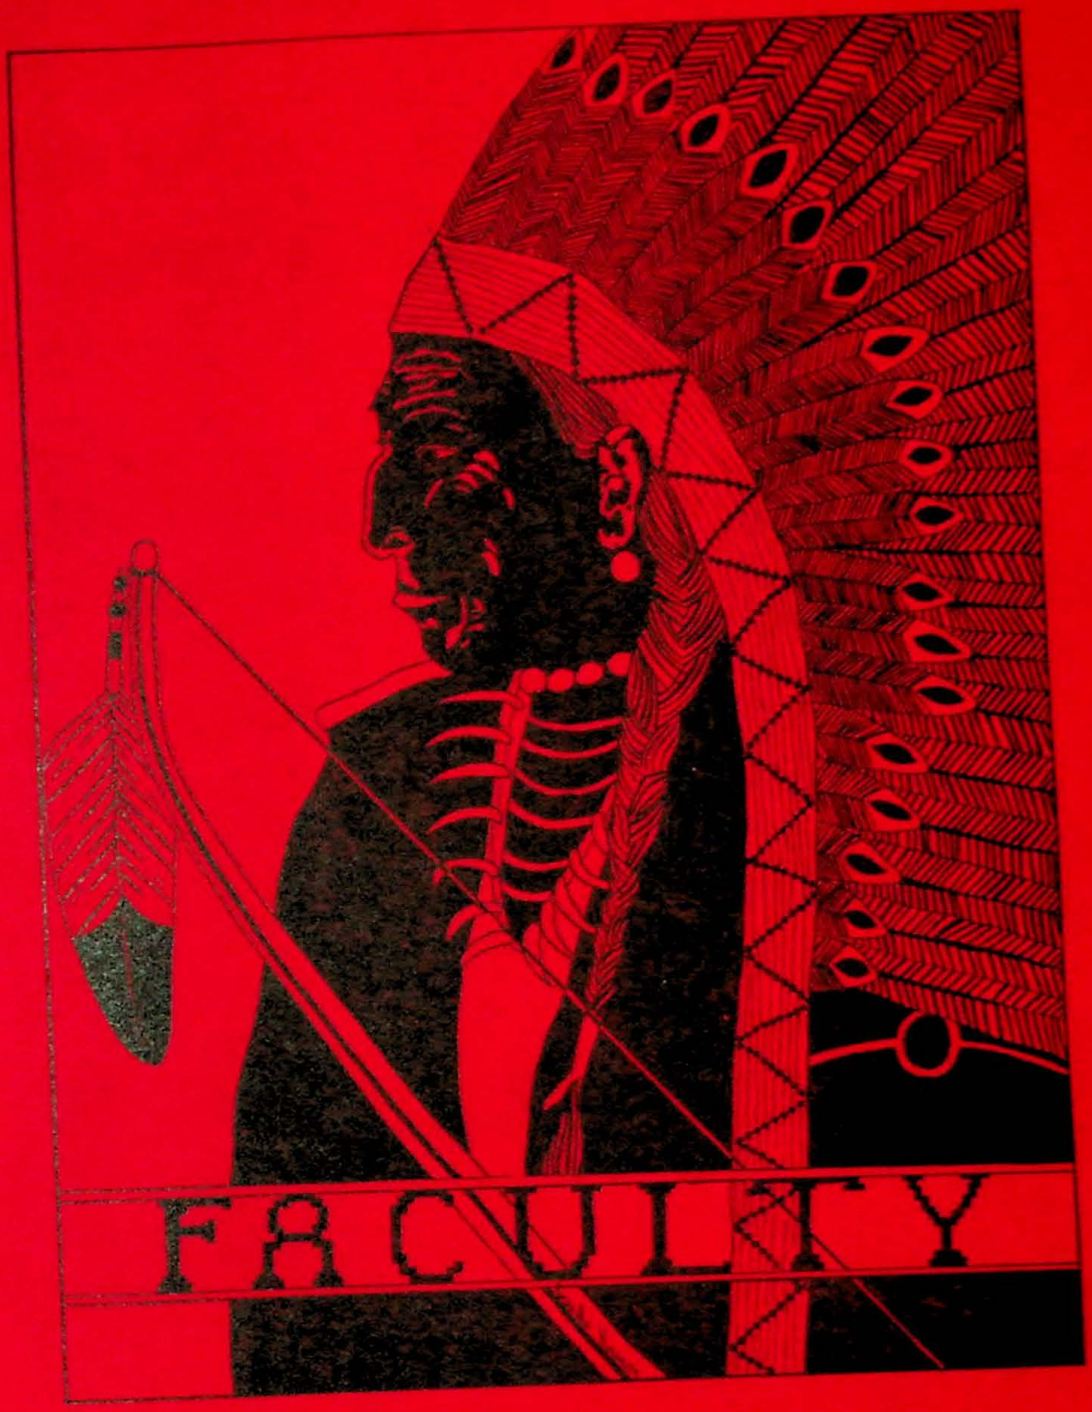
A certain amount of courage is essential to a good editor because one must steel himself to hear such ghoulish expression as, "Miss Kirk, whoooo tore Jane's head off?" or "Now there! You've gone and cut his leg off" or "Somebody's stuck a pen in Jack's eye and punched it out".

After the toil is over, after the Blotters go to press, every one feels let down, and everybody tearfully announces 'them were the days' and 'they wish they could do it all over again'. John tells Ray how he wishes he was working on the Blotter again, and Juel reminds Mary of the jokes connected with their work and so on, far, far, into the years.

John E. Lepping.

Blotter Memories

Miss Kelso's head coming off four times.
Tearing Jane Barth from John Zapp's arms.
Rubber cement and Ray's headache.
Bill Stalker getting his picture on the snap shot page.
Rachel getting nearsighted over lettering the Organization page.
John Lepping getting his local geography.
Staff quarreling over the blue typewriter.
Everyone laughing at his own puns.
Ham getting excited over Binford's missing title.
Bobbing Imelda's hair.
Keeping Mr. Thro away from the Dedication Meeting.
Trying to extract money from subscribers.
The fear of ruined pictures.
The daily telephone call to Mr. Lowry.
Those windy photograph days!
Expecting the art class to wear feathers, moccasins, and blankets.
All in all, the good Indians of the Staff.



Many moons have we assembled
In the presence of Great Sachem.
Then went forth to do his bidding.
Heap Big Chief, whose words are wise ones.

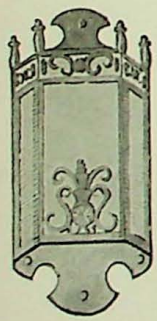
Class of '29's Departure

Slowly o'er our life in high school,
Falls the dusk of graduation:
Now the sunbeams of ambition,
Shoot their spears into the future,
Searching thicket, dingle, hollow.
From our place we rise, we Seniors,
Bid farewell to all our classmates;
"We are going, O, our comrades,
To the portals of the sunset,
To the regions of the homewind."
Now with welling eyes mock-smiling,
Launch we our canoes for sailing,
Shove them forth into the waters,
Whisper to them, "Onward, Onward."
Now we've passed the bend with sadness,
Standing in the bow with head bent,
Lost to view our days in high school,
But we'll remember e'er each other,
Watch each other, rising, sinking,
Till our birch canoes are fading,
Like a new moon, slowly, slowly,
Sinking in the purple distance.

—Kenney and Lepping.



Will and Testament of the Senior Class

We, the Senior Class of New Albany High School, of the City of New Albany, in the County of Floyd and the State of Indiana, being sound of mind and memory, do make, publish, and declare this our last Will and Testament in the manner following, that is to say:

1st—We direct that all our just debts and graduation expenses be paid (some how).

2nd—We give and bequeath to the Junior Class our smiling and good-looking faces and our place as favorites in the hearts of our beloved teaachers.

3rd—We give, devise, and bequeath to the Sophomores the right to be Juniors and to entertain the Seniors with a reception, hoping they will enjoy it as much as we did in our day.

4th—After much consideration we give and bequeath to the Freshmen the right to study in our new building and also our dignified and perfect behavior.

5th—With no hesitation we will Mr. Willer all chewing gum on the floors or otherwise conspicuous places.

6th—All passes are given by command to our dear friend, Mr. Carroll.

8th—Our worn out knickers, with much pomp and ceremony, we present to young Coach Kraemer.

9th—Our friendly and helpful ponies are left with some fear to our dear Principal—Mr. C. C. with the understanding that—a—The horse laughs of the same will be presented to our beloved Miss Peters.

10th—We give and bequeath to Miss Board all dirty towels left in the girls' locker room.

11th—Our Hobby's worn out slicker shall be given as a necessity to the famous Mr. Ballard.

12th—We leave Mr. Mutt more Freshmen to develop into linemen.

13th—By the law of possessions we bequeath and devise the "Bank Day Tomorrow" sign to Miss Harper.

14th—With much sorrow we take Miss Kelso's "Egg", though rotten he may be, but now with much happiness we've left her "Dave" you see.

15th—To our beloved helper, Miss Kirk, we leave all the honor and scraps of our Senior Annual.

16th—Binford's Cadillac shall be provided for the removal of the Freshmen from the old building to the new.

Senior Class.

We whose names are hereto subscribed do certify that on the 10th day of May, 1929, the Senior Class, the testator, subscribed their names to this instrument in our presence and in the presence of each of us, and at the same time in our presence and hearing, declared the same to be their last will and testament, and requested us and each of us to sign our name thereto as witnesses to the execution thereof, which we hereby do in the presence of testator and of each other, on the said date, and written opposite our names our respective places of residence.

PIPE DREAMS

In the stillness of my office,
In the quiet of my fireside,
Creeps a haunting, homesick feeling,
For the high school of my childhood,
Where we mingled with our classmates,
Friends who shared our cares and pleasures,
Giggled with us in the classroom,
Talked and chattered in the hallway,
Till the final bell had sounded,
Wrote the silly notes we treasure,
Faded now and smelling musty,
Wailed against our unjust teachers,
Cut our names into our desk arms,
Worked so hard upon our annual,
And our little weekly journal;
Lonely now, I see them clearly,
Glad to give my power and prestige,
For another high school frolic.

Mary Louise Hull.

WHAT WOULD YOU DO IF—

Mr. Katterjohn caught you slipping out after the sixth period?
You'd get cornered without a pass?
You were tardy and had to see the doctor (?) at three o'clock?
Mr. Wyne would play a discord?
Miss Widman got the sugar and salt mixed?
Mr. Willer caught you with a mouthful of "O Boy"?
You skidded around a corner into Mr. Kahl?

Now the 'papoose', underclassmen,
Soon to be the tribal leaders,
Large and small and in great numbers,
Face the morrow, not yet proven.

Football Resume

Coach Jack Kraemer's 1928 football squad had a rainy season, both in games won and lost and the gridirons it played upon. Of the eight games scheduled, three ended in victory, three in defeat and two in scoreless ties. The Bulldogs played four on muddy fields, three on soggy fields and only one, the Cathedral tilt at Indianapolis, was contested on a dry gridiron. The team stacked up seventy-seven points to its opponents' forty-eight.

The Black and Crimson got off to a slow start due to its inexperience and lost to Anchorage and Jasonville, but began to show improvement with its scoreless tie against Cathedral. A blocked punt, later converted into a safety, caused a heart-breaking 8 to 7 defeat at the hands of Reitz of Evansville.

New Albany's first victory came at the expense of Columbus, 27 to 0. The entire team was represented by a 24 to 6 victory over Seymour. Then a 19 to 7 win over Reitz Memorial of Evansville made it three in a row.

Coach Kraemer's priming for a Black and Crimson blizzard in the annual Turkey Day classic with Jeffersonville went for naught, when a muddy field spoiled our end-running and passing attack.

Charley Seward's beautiful tackle, that brought Captain Binford to the ground, in the closing minutes, saved a possible defeat for the Red Devils and the game ended 0 to 0. t was the second successive Thanksgiving Day that the rivals played a tie game.

Of the seventeen members of the squad awarded letters, eight, Captain-elect Meyers, Robert and Roy Peters, Miller, Kelso, Burd, Duggins and Willcox return for another gridiron season, and eight, Captain Binford, Stocksdale, Hock, Hanen, Goss, Allen, Guilfoyle and Hobson, will graduate.

The other letterman, Harry "Mickey" McGuire, has moved to Iowa. "Mickey" is a valuable asset to any football team because of his fighting spirit.

Coach Kraemer completed his sixth successful season as mentor of New Albany High School football squads. May next year be more successful.

Basketball

Coach "Iky" Ballard, a former star on the Franklin College "Wonder Five", made a hit with New Albany fans in his initial season as basketball coach at New Albany Senior High School. He developed a team which was one of the most successful New Albany has possessed in some years.

The Fall Cities title and Sectional tourney honors were easy accomplishments for the Bulldogs. They finished with a season record of eighteen victories and eight defeats.

The team got away to a slow start, losing to Corydon in the opening game by 26 to 25, but came back and swamped the Pekin outfit by 74 to 18 in its second game.

The Ballardmen gained three victories over our Red Devil rivals and in one game eliminated the Colgate Floor Jinx, 30 to 19. In the sectional the Bulldogs gave the Demons the worst beating either team has ever taken from the other, the score being 45 to 21.

Male and Manual, Louisville rivals, fell twice each before thrusts of the Black and Crimson.

The Bulldogs' hard battles were with Southern Indiana foes, all eight defeats coming from teams of that section. Scottsburg was defeated twice, while Salem, Corydon, and Mitchell split eleven. Seymour took our measure twice, and the other setbacks were at the hands of Columbus, Central of Evansville, and Austin.

Capt. Joe Binford was named by sport critics of the Tri-Cities as the outstanding net performer of the year. Joe was the keyman in our attack and was an able leader, being the only letterman on this year's squad.

The whole squad developed rapidly as the season progressed. Dale Bassett was one of the best offensive players ever to don a Black and Crimson uniform. He averaged ten points a game for the season, counting 230 points in twenty-three tilts.

Prospects for a winning team are bright for next year as five of the eight lettermen return along with the whole second squad. Bassett, Duggins, Hughes, Peters, and Hargrave will form the nucleus for the 1929-30 team, while Binford, Williamson, and Murr have battled for the Black and Crimson for the last time.

Much praise is due our new coach for his untiring efforts with practically a green squad of netsters. He labored and never gave up, and toward the end of the season the "Griz Wagner" style of play began to work to perfection.

We wish Coach Ballard a still more successful year and look forward to a team that will represent New Albany in the State Tournament.

The Second Basketball Team

Much praise is due the second squad for its very successful season. It has been even more outstanding in its class than has our first team.

This team competed in sixteen games, not realizing a single defeat. They scored victories twice over each of the following: Salem, Male, Scottsburg, and Corydon and won one game each from Paoli, Jeff, Georgetown, Junior High of New Albany, St. Francis Monastery, Pekin, Central Christian, and United Brethren.

The second squad was coached by "Mutt" Gehlbach, and the players are Willcox, Kelso, Brown, Zoeller, Tower, Briscoe, Zeller, Raaba, and Burd. These boys did not receive an "N", but they saw the state tournament along with the first team, as compensation for the services they rendered. They are underclassmen, and much is expected of them next year.

Track

This is the first year that New Albany has competed with other teams on her own track. The team participated in four dual track meets this year, all of which were held at home. The first Sectional Track Meet ever staged in New Albany was held here on Saturday, May 11.

Under the tutelage of Coach Kraemer, the team developed rapidly, and, at the close of the season had piled up a total of 211 points to opponents' 185. Several new trackmen earned letters for their season's work.

The lettermen on this year's team are Captain Ebelsisor, Dowell, Meyer, and Stocksdale. The team worked well under Captain Ebelsisor and captured two out of four track meets. Dowell was easily high point man of the team, having 46 points to his credit.

Te Sectional honors went to Salem with 33 points. Madison was second with 14 points and New Albany a close third with 13½ points. Stocksdale, putting the shot 40.8 was the only individual to capture a first place.

The absence of home track meets before this year has been due to the poor track we have had. We are now proud to own the finest track in Southern Indiana, and, although there has been a great deal of interest displayed by fans and students for the initial year of home track meets, a greater amount of interest is expected from them next year.

Baseball

The baseball team, at the time of this writing, has won seven of its eleven games played. In a five game series with Jeff, each school has won two games. The Bulldogs took the first and fourth games. The fifth game will be played later. In other games played, the Black and Crimson has won twice over St. Francis; once over Speed, Pekin and Henryville. Speed and Seymour hold victories over the Bulldogs.

Coach Ballard has developed the team around his four lettermen, Gonder, J. Zoeller, Brown and Stocksdale.

The team is now composed of Gonder, Willcox, Kelso, McAfee, and Stocksdale, outfielders; Caesar, McMonigle, Brown and H. Zoeller, catchers; Landis, Hargrave and Scharrer, pitchers.

Girls' Athletics

This year, for the first time, the girls have come to the front in athletics. Until recently their physical education consisted mainly of rhythm work and some volley ball. But because of the limited field, all of the girls did not have an even chance to perfect themselves. A girl who might become proficient in one thing would fail utterly in the other. Now there is enough variety in the activities to enable each girl to choose one or two things which appeal to her most and work in that.

Basketball has become one of the most popular games this year. Miss Board has proved herself a very good coach and has developed quite a few good players. There were about ten teams of six or seven girls each. Near the end of the season the teams played for championship. After some closely contested games, Margaret Dieckman's team came out the victor. They were undefeated in any of the tournament games and lost only one other game during the season.

Baseball was started as soon as the weather became good enough to go out on the field. "Lovey" Wagner, the captain of last year's champions, again pilots a team which looks as if it might become the champion team this year. And "Lovey" sure can hit 'em.

Soccer, another game which became popular, produced some very good players. Among these Ruth Hanen and Ruth Neeld were the best.

Quite a number of girls have developed into runners and jumpers. Pole-vaulting, also a new thing to the girls, has proved exceedingly fascinating. Our best jumpers are Bertha Morris, Bertha Kleiber, and Harriet Conner, who have cleared the bar at 4 feet, 6 inches. Those doing the best in pole-vaulting are Harriet Conner and Mary Stein.

In track many of the girls have run their mile in good time, and it is surprising at the number of girls who are making hurdlers of themselves.

Every girl in the gym classes has some special stunt that she can do: handsprings, head standing, splits and many more similar things. Some of the girls have become real acrobats.

Then besides the more strenuous exercises, we have the study of rhythm and dancing. While the heavier, faster activities develop the body, the dance encourages grace and the controlled use of the muscles.

By the point system, which has been adopted, each girl is judged and graded according to her merits. What she learns to do is credited to her, and this encourages everyone to do her best.

Because girls' athletics have been so successful this year, and because we love Miss Board and want to thank her for her help, we dedicate this page to her.

Senior Girls

With the organization of the Senior Girls on March 14, we have the rising of the D. O. L. L. S.

On May 16th the Senior girls hiked to Fourth Dam and a good time was enjoyed.

To the Underclassmen, dolls are toys, but to the Senior girls D. O. L. L. S. are delightful, optimistic, lively, laughing Seniors.

The reason for choosing such a name is that the only thing each one of the senior boys needs to be an angel is a couple of W. I. N. G. S.

On Friday, May 10, each member wore old coveralls and goggles. All had grease on their faces and resembled Lindbergh, Chamberlain, Lon Chaney, or what have you.

Being assured that if we didn't announce our full-name everyone would be up in the air, here 'tis:

Witty, Intelligent, Notorious Gang of Seniors.

Speakers

The Speakers' first activity of the year was the Annual Thanksgiving Dinner. About one hundred and thirty poor children of the city were fed chicken and all the "trimmin's". The Dinner took place in the Old High School.

Next came the Wrangler-Speaker Christmas play in assembly; the story of the birth of Christ told by a medieval page to his lady. After the play the Speakers gave presents to the faculty and some of the students. "Booby" Hull, as Santa Claus, read notes from the good little boys and girls of N. A. H. S.

The annual Wrangler-Speaker debate was the next event. The subject was: "Decided: That the Youth of Today is Worse Than the Youth of Yesterday". Lots were drawn; the Speakers drew the affirmative. They were well represented by Thelma Durbin and Catherine Ball. After a long discussion, the judges gave the decision to the Wranglers.

The crowning event of the year was the Speaker Dinner, which took place April 12th. The guests supped under a canopy of blue sky and silver rain. A giant rainbow formed a background for the orchestra. Mary Stein and Dorothy Hoffman sang, accompanied by Helen Royse. Mr. Wyne played two selections. Mary Louise Hull was toastmistress. The speakers were Elizabeth Shine, Betty Jane Hacker, Ida Mae McCulloch, Louise Van Pelt, Thelma Durbin, Jane Barth, and Miss Kirk.

Under the auspices of the Speakers, the popular Messrs. Brown and Rue entertained us in Assembly on May 1. They sang popular songs and were well received as usual.

Throughout the year the Speakers have striven toward the ideals of good oratory, charity and the promotion of school spirit. (We hope we have succeeded.)

The purpose of the Wrangler Club is to promote interest in public speaking. Any boy who is a junior in high school and has an average of B in English is eligible for membership in the club.

The Wranglers, besides carrying on public speaking, held several pep-sessions during assembly periods, took part in the Wrangler-Speaker Christmas play, and furnished the following assembly programs:

Mr. Thomas, the critic of the club, talked on "The Life of Abraham Lincoln".

Henry Dryer's saxaphone sextette entertained with a musical program.

Mr. Wyne, a member of the faculty, entertained with piano selections.

Miss Hand of Louisville Normal School gave a vocal concert.

The Wranglers won the annual Speaker-Wrangler debate, taking the negative of the subject; Resolved: "That the Youth of Today is Worse Than the Youth of Yesterday". Later the Wranglers, upholding the affirmative of the same question won the debate from the Rotary Dinner at which they were guests.

They closed their activities with their Twentieth Annual Banquet, Inferno.

OUR PURPOSE

ACTIVITIES

In response to great demand for popular music by the student body, the society organized an orchestra. This orchestra, composed of members and their friends, played before the students in assembly.

S. R. S. members were permitted to leave their classes one day in order that they might visit the Colgate Soap Factory at Jeffersonville. On December 13th, we were first shown the receiving department. Large tanks containing bulk material were constructed in rows. Each tank contained a measuring gauge, which disclosed the amount within at a glance. The huge vats, in which the soap is boiled, amazed us. Our guide, the head chemist, allowed us to visit his laboratory. Girls were employed as chemists to inspect the qualities of new material. Our guide refused to disclose the secret process by which beaded soap is made. The trip was made in motor cars.

After Hiram Jones, a scientist, paid us a visit under the auspices of the National Assembly Program Company, we endeavored to prove his feats simple by doing the very same ones ourselves. His feature was a burglar alarm. We, having none of these, amazed the students with a death ray. This ray exploded a balloon suspended in mid-air.

On March 23rd, the S. R. S. members assumed the guise of pirates. The cruel traitors kidnapped girls and forced them to their rendezvous. Each pirate alone consumed an entire ship for desert before returning to his den.

ACTIVITIES

This has been quite a busy year for the Mixed Glee Club. Our first public appearance this year was in the Operetta, "The Ghost of Lolly-pop Bay," where we came off with our usual flying colors. We appeared before the assembly with a program the first part of March. In the Good Friday Services, we, with the other Glee Clubs, formed a choir. As is the custom, the Mixed Glee Club provided the special music for the Spring Commencement.

For the first time in its history, the club had a social affair, a picnic at Blackiston's Mill.

Boosters

The Boosters Club has always stood for good sportsmanship and for boosting athletics. They hold pep sessions and parades to advertise the games. They sell ice cream, soft drinks, candy and sandwiches at all the football and basketball games and at the tournament. The electric sign boards were bought with the profits.

The members have tried to bring about pep and school spirit in the student group.

The Commercial Terriers Discuss---

"The Bookkeeping, Shorthand and Typing teams were off!"

"Off?" "Off their—"

"No—I mean they were on their way to the Commercial Tournament at Madison, April 20."

"Score? Oh! you mean who won? Bookkeeping team won first place!"

"Splendid!"

"Shorthand and Typing teams won second."

"Second? And why not first?"

"Gee, why bring that up?"

"One first and two seconds. Excellent record for that department!"

"We can't fight over that statement."

"Was there any 'grand-stand-stuff' pulled off?"

"Well you'd be surprised! Edith Wilson actually made the department blush with egotism—made a mark of 234 out of a possible 235. And Dorothy Dean made a mark of 99.5% for second individual place in shorthand. Lydia Rasmussen won second individual in bookkeeping, and Helen Royse won third individual in typing."

"Bet the teachers couldn't have done better themselves."

"Furthermore, it was found out that Edith's score was the highest in all the district scores in the entire state!"

"'S marvellous! Did she fare that well at state?"

"No, she didn't want to make us blush again so she yielded first to Crawfordsville, second to Mishawaka, and kept third herself. The Bookkeeping team won third place out of the 17 vieing cities of the state."

"Plenty good! I'm proud of our Commerical Department."

"Say, pup, you know, these hope-to-be-financiers, bank presidents, lawyers, doctors, and th—I mean chiefs don't realize what opportunities are awaiting them if they have a working knowledge of bookkeeping, shorthand and typing. These subjects are the ones which will do "worlds" to help them "get a job" and "work up". I wish they would wake up!"

"Gee, I do too. Well, come on let's have a biscuit on Miss Harper and Miss Peters."

Joe Bott—How much gas have you, Spaniard?
Manuel—The gauge points to one-half, but I don't know whether it means half-full or half-empty.

Mr. Katterjohn—When I was a little boy your age, I didn't tell lies.
Beach W.—How old were you when you started?

John Zapp (looking at Gossie's "N")—Do they have to earn those?
Gossie—Sure!
John—Well, I know one girl who didn't.

Lydia Rasmussen writing a sentence on the board—"The hens refuse to labor."

Ray Allen—I called to see how my pal, Joe Wilson, is getting along.
Nurse—Why, he's doing finely, he's convalescing now.
Ray—Well, I'll just sit down and wait till he's through.

Mr. Mahoney—What's a flame test?
Frank McGrath—Ask your flame to go out some evening on a street car.

Tony—I just bought a nickel eraser.
Sheck—I'd think a rubber one would be better.

"When I go to college," said Bernard Bettman, "I'm going to call myself "MINUTE", because they always pass.

For Sale—One pony in splendid condition; name, Vergil. Room 204.

Is New Albany Hi a museum or an asylum? Mr. Katterjohn remarked the other day that there are 600 odd people in the school.

Mr. Mahoney—Mildred, is there any difference between Ferric oxide and Hennatite?
Mildred Moody—Why, Mr. Mahoney, they're spelled lots different.

Jane Hall (in typewriting class)—I think I'll change my typewriter. This one makes too many mistakes.

Hutch—I passed your house last nite.
Velma—Thanks!

Monk Shine (in Journalism class) is so dumb she thinks the house of correction is where the proofreaders work.

Edna (in English class)—How would you diagram the sentence, "Mary ran down the street in her bathing suit."
Hobby—Make a dash after Mary.

Joe Binford—What makes the sea roar?
Barrett—If you had as many crabs and lobsters in you, you would roar too.

Rachel Bliss (in translating "L'Abbe Constantin" in French III)—"La tenir dans ses bras resperer le parfum de ses cheveux." "To hold her in his arms and to breathe the perfume of her. . . . . horses."

Did you see Miss Frankie the morning she came to school with one purse under her arm and another dangling from her hand?

An Alumnus—There were the dumbest pages in the Class Play. They forgot what they were supposed to say and one of them whispered to the other, "You say it", loud enough for everyone in the auditorium to hear.

Irma Utrecht (in History)—So they didn't want to settle the dispute by meditation.

Thelma Durbin (in Art Club)—Michael Angelo was the son of that man who was his father.

Wilma Seigle—Can you tell me what an esophagus is?
Elberta Hitner—Yes, the stinger of a mosquito.

Elizabeth Harmon is so dumb she thinks a boycott is a couch where a boy scout rests.

Gang—Where is everybody?
Helen Royse—Oh, he's out riding his horse.

Seen on Miss Kirk's Board—What New Albany needs most—Girls and Athletics.
